

Operation Clean Up Day

By Jason Tucker

illustrated by Nick Roberts

PRESS RELEASE

Two brothers make tidying up their toys into an exciting adventure in this colourful, and creative, illustrated children's book.

With the promise of a trip to the swimming pool dangling in front of them two brothers are eager to tidy up their toys. From mission one in the lounge where it's as busy as Grand Central Station to having to wake up a terrifying T-Rex in the garden's Dinosaur Park each room is room to a brand new exciting adventure. But can they finish tidying up in time?

The father of three sons aged between one and six years old, author Jason Tucker is no stranger to the fun and fantastical imagination of young children, and the necessity of transforming boring chores into an everyday adventure.

Complimented by dynamic illustrations, Operation Clean Up Day not only provides a fun bedtime read for young children but also offers an entertaining nod to family life that will be recognised by parents and extend families alike.

About the author: Born and raised in London, Jason Tucker is married and is a father of three young boys. He is enjoying an international working life basing himself between London and Dubai. This is his first published work with a number of other titles in the pipeline as well as working on a number of other ventures including TV, Film & graphic novels. Operation Clean Up Day by Jason Tucker & illustrated by Nick Roberts (published by Clink Street Publishing 28th September RRP £ paperback and RRP £ ebook) is available to purchase from online retailers including amazon.co.uk and to order from all good bookstores.
